

BioNJ's Third Annual Diagnostics & Precision Medicine Summit In Practice. In Perspective. In New Jersey.

Trenton, NJ (June 6, 2016) - BioNJ's Third Annual Diagnostics & Precision Medicine Summit, scheduled for Tuesday, June 21, 2016, at Rutgers Business School, Livingston Campus, Piscataway, NJ, will bring together professionals in the fields of Diagnostics and Precision Medicine to collectively share the latest in technologies and trends, and assess how these and many other dynamics are driving the advancement of better individualized patient outcomes.

"BioNJ's Diagnostics & Precision Medicine Summit reinforces New Jersey's vital role in the advancement of Precision Medicine," said BioNJ President and CEO Debbie Hart. "We have a stellar lineup of speakers, all at the forefront of this evolving area of medical innovation, as well as a rich roster of events that will encourage deep discussion on how Precision Medicine can translate to better health at the patient level."

Thought leaders from the industry, academia, NIH and investor community will lead discussions on the status of innovation, policy changes, the role of Big Data, the evolving value proposition and Precision Medicine in practice. The robust full-day schedule will include Keynote presentations, plenary sessions, networking, exhibits, poster sessions and company presentations.

The powerful list of speakers includes:

- Khaterah Calleja, Sr. Vice President Technology & Regulatory Affairs, AdvaMed Dx
- Dave Dworaczyk, Ph.D., Director, Life & Health Sciences Strategic Development, Oracle
- Shridar Ganesan, M.D., Ph.D., Rutgers Cancer Institute of New Jersey
